

Published based on A Message To Part-Time Internet Marketing And Sales People... Hang On To Your Day Job!

A Message To Part-Time Internet Marketing And Sales People... Hang On To Your Day Job!

A lot of people with regular jobs would love to work from home full time doing Internet marketing and sales. This is a great dream to have, especially if you already have a business idea that catches your imagination and has the potential to succeed online at some stage in the future.

In the meantime, my advice to you is simple: Hang on to your day job while you learn how to make money doing Internet marketing and sales. While some people take a cynical attitude to what they call their J-O-B (just over broke, ha ha ha), the fact is that for many people, their job is a lifeline that keeps them off the breadline.

I am not saying that you should never quit your job for your own business. Far from it. However, timing is important.

Click here to read the full article:

\(Internet Marketing And Sales\)

You can also find this article published on A Message To Part-Time Internet Marketing And Sales People... Hang On To Your Day Job!, and on the tag pages day job, internet business, Internet marketing and sales, Internet marketing and sales business.