How To Use FeedBurner Feeds To Generate Incoming Links For Your Website

Webmasters who launch new websites face the problem of building a large amount of backlinks to their site in order to rank well in search engines for specific keyword phrases.

Building backlinks the more conventional way can take up a huge amount of time, whether it's through link exchanges, forum posting, blog commenting, article marketing or directory submitting.

These methods are definitely worth pursuing as they are effective, but there is another way to build links quickly and effectively that many webmasters ignore or simply don't know about.
